A Social Story About Setting Goals

© 2015, Danielle Faerber
Thank you for your purchase. I created this book as an easy resource to explain the idea of “begin with the end in mind” or goal setting to my kindergarten students.

For this resource, I’ve included a big Teacher Edition of the book and smaller books that can easily be printed for each child to take home. At the end, I also included a version missing the words “her” and “my.” To integrate spelling/word study into this book, you can have students write the missing word on each page.

Please let me know if you have any questions and follow my blog for more ideas on teaching.
End in Mind Amy:
a social story about setting goals
End in Mind Amy begins with the end in mind. She always plans ahead.
Amy sets goals at school and makes plans to meet her goals. I can set goals, too.
Amy set a goal to read a big book. She practiced every day to read the book.
She sets goals at home and makes plans to meet her goals.
Amy set a goal to get a cat. She worked hard every day so she could buy her cat.
Amy looks for ways to make a difference. She makes plans to help her family, her friends, and her school.
I can make a difference, too. I can help my family, my friends, and my school!
